Strategic Sales Schooling

I have recently employed the services of Strategic Sales Schooling to help develop my sales skills to increase the client base of Safety Development Services Ltd.

I found the whole experience to be invaluable in providing me with additional skills to assist me with my business, and in Andrew Simpson I received good quality training in a subject previously unfamiliar to me.

Andy provides a wealth of experience developed through many years in sales, coupled with tried and tested sales techniques and he has an ability to deliver the training in a way that I found easy to understand. I feel that I can look forward to using the skills he has taught me with confidence, in a subject that I have avoided in the past.

I am happy to recommend his services to anyone who may recognise sales as a weakness in their personal business skills.
